

State Financial Aid

Due to school closures in response to preventing the spread of COVID-19, the Missouri Department of Higher Education & Workforce Development (MDHEWD) has issued guidance on several issues pertaining to the A+ Scholarship and the Bright Flight Scholarship. The department will issue further guidance as necessary.

Federal Student Aid

The U.S. Department of Education has issued guidance for college administrators, financial aid officers, students, parents, and faculty in the wake of school cancellations and postponements. See the latest information on the Department of Education COVID-19 webpage.

Colleges and Universities

Many of Missouri's colleges and universities have taken action to help prevent the spread of COVID-19. Institutions have created their own webpages with details and plans for the upcoming weeks and months. In order to find the most up-to-date information from each college or university, please click on the school's name below. Gov. Parson's April 9 order closing public and charter schools for the remainder of the school year does not include Missouri's colleges and universities.
